Description As a user creating a persona I want to audition without leaving the main Forge page So that the workflow feels continuous and fast Description: Redesign the UX so Audition is not a separate page but integrated: Option A: Modal Overlay <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Click "Create Persona" → Modal opens with audition• Backdrop blur effect• Full workflow in modal (configure → audition → save)• Escape or X to close (save draft first?) Option B: Tab/Step Flow on Main Page <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Main page has steps: Configure → Audition → Save• Same page, different sections revealed• Progress indicator at top Option C: Slide-out Panel <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Right-side panel slides out for audition• Main content shows persona roster• Keeps roster visible while auditioning Recommendation: Option B (Tab Flow) for best UX: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Persona Config panel (left/top)2. Chat/Audition panel (right/bottom)3. Step indicator: Config → Audition → Commit Tech Notes: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Refactor Audition.vue into component• Use Inertia router for page flow OR Vue conditional rendering• Preserve state when switching views Story Points: 5 Acceptance Criteria: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Audition accessible from main Forge page• No separate /audition URL required• State preserved between config and audition• Smooth transitions between steps
